The Webb Schools Welcome New Trustees

CLAREMONT, CA – The Webb Schools are proud to announce the selection of two new members of our Board of Trustees: Jennifer Y. Ishiguro '91 and Jordan Taylor '02.

“Jennifer and Jordan are wonderful additions to our board,” Head of Schools Taylor B. Stockdale said. “They each bring an incredible range of talents and skills as well as their love of Webb to this critical role in the Webb community.”

Ishiguro is a partner, chief legal officer and corporate secretary of StepStone Group Inc., a global private markets firm that provides customized investment and advisory solutions in private equity, infrastructure, private debt and real estate to some of the most sophisticated investors in the world.

She graduated cum laude from Harvard Law School and Yale College. Before law school, she served as speechwriter to United Nations Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali and studied international trade law in Japan on a Fulbright fellowship.

Among her favorite memories of Webb are participating in theatrical productions and engaging in heated debates with her day student best friend seated atop the machines in the laundry room past visiting hours, challenging religion, existential existence and the like.

Taylor is a partner at Taylor Ali Capital, an alternative asset class hedge fund, and shareholder at Kwontified, an eCommerce management firm.

He received his B.A. from Cornell University and J.D. from the University of Notre Dame. Taylor has served the Webb Community for well over a decade and currently is vice president of the Alumni Council. He previously served as both a reunion chair and Sophomore Career Evening speaker.

While a boarder, Taylor was a Rogers Scholar, co-captain of the track team and member of the football and basketball teams.
